Eight men who landed from a small boat at West Point, well armed with rifles, were arrested early this morning and were accused at the instance of Inspector Bremner at the Police Court before Mr Mitchell-Innes with a big section of the community were being in possession of deadly weapons and with being on shore without a night pass. Their arms were conficuted and they were each fined $10. The men are said to have that had forfeited its promise. The had a good spm of money on them, and all measure of expulsion may perhaps be their fines were paid. They are supposed now necessary, as it is well known that to have landed from a passage boat and to be smugglers.

No A shang, a coolie who, according to the evidence of Constables Myers and Daniel, has been squeezing the coolies at the Aberdeen Dock, was ordered this forencon at cused, if he wished to escape a mangling from the rogue's friends,-members, it is alleged, of the Triad Boclety. On the other hand, accused's friends said he was the agent of one Afat, who used to be a foreman at coolie house. The money was used, they said, for the founding of a sort of a sick and mutual aid fund. Whatever truth there may be in this story, the prisoner's conduct was such as to merit his being classed as a rogue and vagabond and bound over as stated to keep the peace.

James Gray, chief officer of the S. S. Port Addaide, was charged at the Police Court this morning, before Mr Mitchell-Innes, with assaulting a Chinese shoemsket who had gone on board to sell his goods. The complainant's story was to the effect that he went on board the B. S. Port Addade about 7.45 on Thursday morning. He asked to see the Captain and measured him for a pair of shoes. He then went to the chief officer and laid shoes on his table. The officer took the shoes and pitched them overboard, alleging so his wason for doing so that the Chinaman had not answered when called. The complainant then snatched up the rest of his goods and made for his boat, but before he reached it he received two kicks on the leg from the accused, who chased him with a file. The Chinaman ran down the companion ladder to his boat, but before he had reached his boat, the Chief Officer loosed the fastening of the ladder and allowed the fugitive to mink in the water up to the waist. In answer to the defendants agent Mr Wilson the complainant and his shop name was We Chaung. till the Captain allowed him to come on board, and he clid not use but language. The syldence was partly amiliament by a tailor from the Wn Chenny abor, who went on board with the complainant, but the case was dismissed and a cross obargo against the Ohlneman for soing on board the ship-without leave was beard

A PRETTY extensive quantity of stolen pro perty, principally sandal wood, was found yesterday in the possession of one Wong Ka Chun, will was charged with this offence at the Police Court this morning, before Mr Mitchell-Innes. The evidence against accused was given by Sergoaut Harkins, who said that yesterday about 8 a.m. he found 150 catties of sandal wood under some boxes in defendant's shop at Hung Chung. The accused told him he had bought it for 60 cents. The value of the wood was $20.30 and he believed the shop to be a receiver's : he went and got a search warrant. On return-40 cattles of sandal wood. He found besides, a quantity of goods belonging to the Naval Store. These latter articles were identified by William Cook, storehouseman, Naval Yard, as being Government property The accused was sentenced to six months hard labour.

Dr Hance's chief botanical work was in descriptive and systematic botany; scarcely a month has passed for many years without seeing the publication of descriptions of some plants from China which were new to sing policy, but that she does not seem in science or notes on others which were now to the country.

In 1871 Dr Hance published a Supplement to the 'Flora Hongkongensis,' which was much needed, as there had been many discoveries in the island subsequent to the publication by Bentham a decade before of the 'Flora Hongkongensis. The first number in 1878 of the Journa of Botany contained a paper from the pen of this eminent author entitled Spicelegia Flore Sinensis.' Contributions under this title have been constantly appearing since that time, and they have contained Diagnosis of New and Habitats of Rare or Hitherto Unrecorded Chinese Plants' the number of 633 species. Dr. Hance truly remarked in a quotation from Miquel at the commencement of this series of papers that :-- Un pays sur lequel nos connaisances sont encore tres bornées, et qui, sous le point de vue de la géographie botanique et des questions qui s'y rapportent, mérite toute notre attention.

In addition to strictly scientific and technical work, amongst other things the following papers on subjects of economic and commercial importance were pro-

Francis B. Forbes and Wm. B. Hemsley.' I happened to be present at that meeting, and scientific men at home. In this work Dr. Hance could have rendered eminent services. As it is, however, his writings willbe of the greatest service in the elaboration of the Index Flora Sinensis.

Dr Hance kept up frequent correspondence with the principal botanical establishfrom the finish, however, Glass (Sham- ments of the world, and it is few of them Now I have taken the trouble to invesrock) pulled up in fine style, and, after which have not benefited from his generous donations of rare and valuable botanical treasures for herbaria.

When Hongkong began to think (about Public Garden, Dr Hance was consulted as uncertainty prevailed as to who had come to the suitability of a site; and it was on his recommendation that that was chosen on which the old portion of the Botanic Gardens now rests.

Since the gardens began, in 1871, assume a scientific character, Dr. Hance's extensive and high acquirements have alwave been at our disposal and they have been extensively availed of in botanical matters, regular and large correspondence having been maintained with him in scientific subjects of mutual interest, which has been greatly to the advantage of the scientific work of the Botanical Department.

Dr Hance was ever ready to furnish information and help without regard to the trouble it gave himself, and botanists making visits to his extensive herbarium and library were sure to meet with the greatest courtesy and hospitality, and to depart with a fund of new information. His death makes a gap which will not soon be filled, and many will feel the acute pangs of grief which follow the loss of a friend.

PIRACY AND MURDER AT ACHEEN. The Straits Times has received the following telegram from Mr W. A. B. Cullen, the editor of the Penang Garette:-Hock Canton pirated, Olehleh, engineer McCulloch mate murdered, Captain Hansen wife wounded and taken prisoners with wix of crew, vessel gutted and deserted. An esteemed correspondent sends the same paper the following particulars of the attack on the Hok Canton and the fate of the officers and crow:---

The Hok Canton is a steamer of about 400 tons under Dutch flag, owned by the Batavia Chinese contractors for the Achean Naval forces. She has been running on the Penang-Acheen line for the last two years, under the command of Captain Hansen, a Dane, who is well and favourably known in those parts.

On the 14th instant, when lying off Rigas on the West Const of Acheen, the Hok Canton was attacked by anotorious turbulent chief, named Toekoo Comar, who has frequently caused trouble. Captain Hansen and his wife were wounded, and, tosafe at Olehleh when the above news left.
